Most persons know that in the manufacture of Silk Fabrics there is so much of the weighting process—that is by the introduction of Foreign substances, the weight of the original fabric is in many instances doubled. The material is much heavier but is sure to cut and weaken and prove unsatisfactory to the consumer, which reflects injuriously upon the seller. Three years ago we began to sell

Rambler

One-Legged, Record-Breaking Seedleson,

Who was hired by the Stearns' folks to ride their wheel across the continent, would not venture out until his wheel had been fitted with a pair of G. & J. Tires. He afterwards wrote:—

I am satisfied that few, if any, other tires could have stood the tremendous strain to which they were subjected. More than 1,000 miles run over the ties of the U. & C. P. Railroad. I am confident that your corrugated tire is the best obtainable for country touring, and for muddy roads there is no equal. The only puncture on the entire trip was when I stupidly ran into a barbed wire fence.

You are safe in having G. & J. Tires.

RAIDED BY WOMEN.

Coke Strikers' Wives Take a Hand.

They Attempt to Drive Out the Blacklegs.

Fired On By the Deputies and Repulsed.

Fifteen Persons Are Wounded and Some of Them Seriously So—Turbulent Times Expected.

SCOTTDALE, Pa., May 4.—A riot occurred at the Painter works of the McClure coke company about 6 o'clock today. The company made an effort to start this and other plants of the company Tuesday, and today the women living at the plant determined to drive the "blacklegs" from work. They assembled and with tin pans, clubs, coke forks and brooms and marched to the coke yard.

Sanford White, mine superintendent; Ewing B. Roddy, bookkeeper, and a lot of deputies were on guard, and a shot was fired to scare the women. In less than a minute the men living in the houses rushed to the scene, when White opened fire on the crowd that numbered over 100.

The affray occurred between blocks of ovens, and at the first fire from White and the deputies, three men fell wounded, one was shot through the thigh, one through both legs and the third in the neck. It is believed the latter is hurt fatally.

The women carried off the wounded, and now the infuriated men set upon White and Roddy, whom they seemed to regard as responsible for the shooting. Before a sufficient number of deputies could be massed at this point Sanford White was completely surrounded. He was brutally beaten over the head, knocked down, kicked and bruised about the body. His recovery is doubtful.

While all this was going on, the deputies who had room to use their Winchesters did so, and managed to shoot one woman, who is now said to be dying. Roddy, the bookkeeper, was thought at first to be badly injured, but he escaped with only slight bruises and was brought here for treatment.

The doctors of town were summoned and are now caring for the wounded. White's wounds were dressed and he was sent to the Miners hospital in Connellsville.

It has just been learned that a big Hun had a white man down and was standing over him with an axe, when he was knocked down by James Tarr, one of the store clerks. It is now believed that at least fifteen were shot. There is great excitement throughout the entire region. The strikers are becoming desperate and mobs are assembling at various points to raid the plants now in operation. The operators and leaders of the strike predict turbulent times within the next few days.

THE DETAILS OF A FIGHT.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., May 4.—The riot at the Painter works resulted in the wounding of ten strikers and serious injury to Superintendent White and E. B. Roddy, the bookkeeper of the company. White and Roddy were terribly beaten by the mob, and the latter is in a critical condition.

Two of the strikers will die. The plant started up at 7 o'clock with about one half the complement of men. Two hours later the strikers began to assemble near the works. Some of the workmen became frightened and went home, but most of them remained.

About 6 o'clock a committee was sent into the mine to request the men to come out and, upon their refusal, the mob, headed by a score or more of women, attacked the plant. White and Roddy, assisted by a dozen of deputies, stood guard and when the mob came up with a rush, White fired point blank into their ranks. A Hungarian woman fell with a bullet in her thigh. Maddened by this, the mob, which numbered a couple of hundred, closed in on the deputies, who, driven into close quarters and blinded by the shower of missiles, were unable to use their Winchesters. After emptying their revolvers, they fled and the mob surrounded White and Roddy.

A burly Hun attacked the latter with a hatchet, felling him to the ground, and was about to deal the death blow when James Tarr knocked the Hun down with a club. White was dragged into the engine house to escape the fury of the strikers. By this time the deputies rallied and three volleys were fired in quick succession, forcing the mob to retreat over the hill in utter rout.

A number of strikers were carried from the battlefield, and it is believed they were killed. Dr. W. H. Cole, the company's physician, stated that fifteen strikers went down in the three charges. Three men and one woman were carried off the ground after the first charge, and when the mob finally retreated they bore away at least ten more. Three of them were left near the works. One of these was shot through the thigh, another through both legs, and the third had a bad wound in the groin.

At 1 o'clock White is suffering intense agony and his recovery is yet a matter of doubt. Roddy is believed to have been fatally wounded. The affair has caused the most intense excitement here. It is feared the foreigners will revenge the death of their countrymen and that this is but the beginning of riots in all parts of the region. It would not be a surprise to the people here should the strikers resort to the use of dynamite to blow up the works.

The injured as far as known were:

Sanford White, superintendent, badly beaten, condition critical.

Ewing B. Roddy, badly beaten, condition critical.

John Skoneski, shot through the thigh.

Stephen Youski, shot through both thighs.

Joseph Skoneski, head split with an axe.

Murtes Skonesky, shot in shoulder.

Unknown Slavish woman, shot in thigh.

Superintendent White was taken to the Connellsville hospital and it is thought will not survive. Ewing Roddy was brought here and cared for. The foreigners were carried to the adjoining houses and cared for by Drs. Rogers and Fotters.

Sheriff Richards, of Fayette county, is upon the scene of the battle with forty men armed with Winchesters, and has already arrested thirty persons charged with being implicated in the riot. They are now on the way to Uniontown jail.

VISIONS OF BLOODSHED

Dance Before the Excited Citizens of Lexington.

A Duel Between Senator Hodges and Editor Moore is Threatened—Breckinridge Causes It.

LEXINGTON, Ky., May 4.—The city is in a fever of excitement and correspondents and politicians are flocking hither in anticipation of Colonel Breckinridge's arrival tonight. Visions of bloodshed came today in rumors that Senator Hodges, editor of the Observer, had threatened to hold Editor Moore personally responsible if his paper contained strictures on Hodges' defense of Breckinridge.

Editor Moore took early means to suppress bloodshed by placing Hodges under $5,000 bond to keep the peace.

MUSICIANS IN A WRANGLE.

Members of the National League Disagree on an Important Question.

BALTIMORE, May 4.—An animated and somewhat stormy debate was in progress all day in the councils of the National League of Musicians. The question under discussion was that of "Universal Membership." The matter was brought before the convention in the shape of a resolution presented by the committee on law and supervision. The resolution provides for an amendment to sections 10 of the by laws. This section provides that a member of any local union of the league shall be entitled to become an associate member of any other local to which he may apply upon condition that he present a certificate from the secretary of his local and pay an admission fee of $5.

The amendment provides for the insertion of a clause limiting the associate period to three months or less, and then a discussion arose as to whether or not members in good standing in one local union applying for membership in any other local union should be subjected to an examination as to musical ability and standing. A majority of the members favored the abolition of the examination requirement. The $5 extra entrance fee was also objected to. The question was not settled today. It is bitterly complained by some delegates that the representatives from New York, Philadelphia, Chicago and the great musical centers are endeavoring to push the passage of laws in the league which will inure to their own advantage.

REGISTERING CHINESE.

Large Numbers Comply with the Law at San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—Not until midnight last night was the work of registering Chinese in San Francisco finished. The total number of certificates issued from January 2 to April 17, when, because of the suspense of applicants, the actual issuance of certificates was stopped, was 48,002 and from April 17 to 2 p. m. last night about 4,000 applications were received.

The census returns of 1890 place the number of Chinese in the first revenue district at 51,000. The revenue officers have registered 47,000. Chinese laborers and women and children made application as well as merchants. The first district comprises San Francisco and all the counties south and southeast of San Joaquin river. In San Francisco the total registration will not be far from 20,000. Perhaps about 65,500 will prove to be the total state registration. Collector Welburn has written to the revenue commissioner for instructions as to future proceedings. The law directs the arrest and deportation of unregistered Chinese, but congress has passed no appropriation to cover the expenses of deportation, and nothing can be done until this congressional oversight has been corrected.

Mrs. Potter Palmer.

CHICAGO, May 4.—It is reported that Mayor Hopkins will appoint Mrs. Potter Palmer a member of the city board of education on August 1 to succeed Mrs. Flower, whose term then expires. Mrs. Palmer will soon visit Japan.

Mr. O. E. Robinson, teacher of music, returned from Chicago last evening. After four weeks' stay he will resume his classes in music as usual.

REACHES HOBART.

General Randall's Army Enters That Town

And Seizes All the Bread in Sight.

Valparaiso Threatens to Prevent Entrance to That City.

But the Brave General Says His Soldiers Will Be There All The Same—Coxeyites Elsewhere.

VALPARAISO, Ind., May 4.—General Randall arrived at Hobart with his army at 10 o'clock today. The army proceeded to confiscate all the bread and crackers in town and there was considerable rioting in the ranks. The resolutions passed by Valparaiso citizens last night, demanding that Randall's army be prohibited from entering this city, were handed to Randall, but he said they would march into Valparaiso this evening just the same. There is much feeling here and aid has been refused the army.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—Jacob S. Coxey and his lieutenants, Carl Browne and Christopher Columbus Jones, were star attractions in the district police court today, where they were arraigned for violation of the capitol grounds act on May 1. The court room was filled with spectators, populist members of congress constituting a notable part of the assemblage. Attorneys Hyman and Lippscomb appeared for the defendants in the preliminary proceeding and raised the issue of constitutionality of the law under which their clients were arrested. The point was argued at considerable length by Senator Allen, of Nebraska. Congress, he said, had no power to confer upon the vice president and the speaker of the house the right to suspend the enforcement of the act any more than it had the right to confer the power upon the czar of all the Russians.

He denounced the courts for assuming legislative functions. This case, the senator declared, would assume a national importance. He quoted Magna Charta and American revolutionary history and declared that the arrest of the defendants implied a denial of the rights of peaceable assemblage and petition. Those rights were implied in the constitution as regarded every spot in the District of Columbia just as much as in California, Texas or Florida. Judge Miller, after arguments closed, overruled the objections of counsel for the defense to the information, the judge holding that the capitol grounds act was constitutional. He also denied Coxey a special trial.

TACOMA, Wash., May 4.—Latest reports from the scene of disturbance on the Northern Pacific railroad are that the commonwealers did not exactly steal the train but simply swarmed aboard in such numbers that the train men could do nothing with them. In every case where a man was ordered to get off, he got off, but immediately climbed back again. The train was finally side tracked at Palmer and United States marshals have gone to take charge. The plan of the commonwealers now is to steal their way to Spokane in small squads, making that city their rendezvous and then to proceed east via the Great Northern.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 4.—Governor McGraw, after being notified that the industrial army, under General Cantwell, had seized a Northern Pacific train, said the road was in the hands of the United States courts and the federal government was fully prepared to cope with the difficulty. He refused to take any action as to the train, but said that if any part of the army remained at Puyallup he should deal with any emergency as might arise.

BREACH OF FAITH IS CHARGED.

Bad Feeling Results From the Judicial Convention at Montpelier, Ind.

MONTPELIER, Ind., May 4.—The democratic judicial convention held in this city has caused considerable bad feeling between Blackford and Wells counties, which form the twenty-eighth district. The nomination of judge was given to Wells county with the understanding that Blackford was to name the candidate for prosecutor. Aaron Waltz, a young attorney of Hartford City, was decided upon in the Blackford county caucus; J. A. Hindman, the present prosecutor, being defeated by one vote. When the convention convened at 2 p. m. E. C. Vaughn, the present judge, was nominated by acclamation, but when the counties were called for the nomination of prosecutor the chairman of the Blackford county delegation cast its full vote for Waltz, which was objected to by one of the delegates. This was a signal for an uprising of Hindman's friends. A new vote was ordered taken, in which Hindman was successful. Prominent Blackford county democrats predict defeat for the ticket.

DR. E. J. M'OSCAR

Attends the International Railway Surgeons Convention at Galveston.

Dr. E. J. McOscar, the surgeon of the Grand Rapids railroad at this point, will leave tomorrow morning for Chicago where he will join a large party of railroad surgeons en route to Galveston, Texas, to attend the international convention of the railroad surgeons of United States, Canada and Mexico held in that city on May 8, 9 and 10. The party will go to Kansas City and then take the Santa Fee route through Oklahoma to Texas. There will be over 1,600 surgeons in attendance at the convention and while away they will visit many points of interest in the Lone Star state and along their route. The doctor will be absent from the city until the latter part of next week. The surgeons attending the convention are shown every courtesy by the railroads and will have a grand time while away from their homes.

COAL STRIKE.

Trouble of a Serious Nature Brewing.

Striking Finlanders Threaten Bloodshed if the Opportunity Presents Itself—Situation Elsewhere.

DULUTH, Minn., May 4.—Advices from Virginia this afternoon indicate that the situation on the Mesaba range is becoming critical. Sheriff Sharvy has telegraphed here for fifty more deputies, which will make a force of over 100 on duty at the scene of the trouble. The men at the Oliver mine and at Drake and Strattons went to work under protection today. The strikers are ugly and restless. They are mostly Finlanders and a desperate set. If they start a fight it will be a bloody one.

PITTSBURG, Pa., May 4.—Henry Floershiem and Richard Bunton, representing two of the largest railroad and river coal companies in this district, gave it as their opinion today that the conference called for May 15, at Cleveland, to settle the great coal strike would prove a failure. Mr. Floershiem said that the Pittsburg, Chicago, New York and Cleveland coal companies which were largely responsible for rate cutting had not been consulted in regard to yesterday's meeting. The conference, he said, was not representative and he was inclined to think that it was arranged by the miners' officials for the sole purpose of stimulating the strikers and to keep them out. The operators as a rule were not willing to pay the scale asked, and if the strike was for uniformity, it could not be declared off until every operator had agreed to maintain the uniform rate. Mr. Bunton stated that the river interests were not represented in the conference and none of the operators have been asked to attend.

TACOMA, Wash., May 4.—All of the more extensive mines of the Northern Pacific Coal company at Roslyn have been suspended indefinitely, by order of General Manager Langley. This is supposed to mean an absolute suspension of the mines until a settlement with the men is effected or new men brought in. The colored miners now in the camp are standing by the white miners. The mine owners state that they will fill the positions held by the miners by other men, as the orders they have must be filled.

TRINIDAD, Colo., May 4.—The coal miners' strike is reaching larger proportions hourly and the present indications are that all the mines in the section will be closed by Saturday night.

CHICAGO, May 4.—A crowd of striking brick molders gathered at the brick yards of D. V. Hurington & Co., at Blue Island today and threatened to destroy the works. Non-union men are at work in these yards under the protection of the sheriff. The latter's deputies met the strikers at the entrance with loaded Winchesters and threatened to shoot the first invader. The men sullenly withdrew and bloodshed was narrowly averted. After destroying Hurington & Co.'s works and driving out the non-union workmen the strikers expected to repeat the operation at other brick yards in the vicinity.

LOCAL LINES.

A gentleman who claims to know says that Sells Brothers' circus will show at Lakeside.

The Ancient Order of Hibernians will go to communion in a body at the Cathedral Sunday.

Dr. C. B. Stemen left last evening for Galveston, Texas, to attend a meeting of railway surgeons.

The business meeting of the Y. M. C. A. which was to have been held tonight has been postponed until next Thursday evening.

John H. Meyer, of the contracting firm of Grotholtman & Co., found a pocketbook yesterday containing a key and a small amount of money.

Joseph Murphy, aged seven weeks, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, of 28 Lavina street, died at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, of spasms. The father is an employe of the electric light works. The funeral was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

There will be a short musical program in connection with the ice cream social to be given this evening by the ladies of Christ's Lutheran church, at the home of Mrs. J. P. Merrillat, 48 McClellan street. Come and enjoy a good time.

Miss Ruth Matlack, aged eighty-four years, died of old age and nervous prostration at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at her home in this city. She was born in Lancaster, Ohio. Miss Matlack was an aunt of Mrs. Henry Graffe, wife of the jeweler, and Mrs. Helen N. Cornyn, also of this city. Miss Matlack came here about three years ago with Mrs. Cornyn, and lived at 99 East Jefferson street. The remains will be taken Saturday morning to Lancaster, Ohio, for burial. The casket will be accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Graffe and Mrs. Cornyn.

DYNAMITERS' DOOM.

They Are Severely Dealt With in London.

Polti is Given Ten Years' Imprisonment and Feranaro Gets Twenty Years.

LONDON, May 4.—Twenty and ten years imprisonment respectively were the sentences imposed upon Guiseppe Feranaro and Francesco Polti, the dynamiters, at the Old Bailey today.

Polti, who was arrested with dynamite bombs in his possession April 14, is only twenty-one years old. He had been intimate with Bourdin, who was "hoist with his own petard" in Greenwich park the first week in March. Polti turned queen's evidence and upon information he gave Feranaro, a tailor, was arrested April 22.

Feranaro was a distributing agent for the anarchists of England and his workshop was the headquarters and recruiting station of the Automonie club. His relation to the anarchists was very similar to that which Tyman, the famous "No. 1," bore to the Phoenix park assassins.

Justice Hawkins, in passing sentence, said that Feranaro had confessed that he was guilty of an abominable, wicked, evil design to cause an explosion in Great Britain and to spread destruction among the people and apparently endanger property. There was not a single extenuating circumstance to justify him in abating by one iota the punishment for such offenses. He wished it to be distinctly understood that men of the class of the prisoners that they can be interfered with without proof of an explosion having occurred and that a man may be be punished after proof has been furnished that he had made preparations to cause an explosion. It was not even necessary, in order to punish the offender, that he intended in all cases, that the explosion should occur in Great Britain. An act of parliament made it a highly penal and criminal offense for a man to prepare here for such diabolically wicked deeds as those contemplated by the prisoners.

Feranaro, upon hearing his sentence, cried "viva l'anarchie." He also waved his arms excitedly, which caused him to be immediately seized and held while Polti was being sentenced. The latter, upon hearing his fate, shouted "shame." While being taken away from the court room Feranaro said, through an interpreter: "Today you make the laws; another day we shall make them."

The supposed infernal machine which was found last night close to the government powder magazine in Hyde Park, this city, turns out to be another hoax. The "infernal machine" was nothing more than a meat tin, containing a clock case and filled with soot.

VON DER AHE ARRESTED.

Baldwin Intent on Securing Damages for False Imprisonment.

PITTSBURG, May 4.—President Von der Ahe, of the St. Louis Base Ball club, was arrested yesterday on a capias issued in a suit for $10,000 damages brought by the ballplayer, Mark Baldwin, for arrest and false imprisonment in St. Louis in 1891. Von der Ahe was taken to the office of Sheriff Richards, where he gave bail in the sum of $1,000. Baldwin's arrest was upon a charge of conspiracy brought by Von der Ahe. When the case was heard Baldwin was discharged, there being no evidence against him. He immediately entered suit against Von der Ahe for damages. This suit was brought at Philadelphia, but has now been discontinued there and brought in this county, where Baldwin thinks he can obtain a more speedy trial and also give the matter his personal attention. It is rumored that Mark's failure to secure an engagement with any of the league clubs this season is due to his determination to prosecute this case against Von der Ahe, after having been approached by friends of the St. Louis magnate and requested to drop it.

DEBS GETS A WARM RECEPTION.

President of the American Railway Union Welcomed Home.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., May 4.—Friends of President Debs, of the American Railway Union, had prepared a surprise for him last evening when he arrived home from St. Paul. Two thousand were at the depot. He was taken to a carriage drawn by four horses and escorted to a platform opposite the postoffice, where 4,000 people heard him respond to an address of welcome. He spoke at length, telling the story of the Great Northern strike, which he said had no parallel in the history of organized labor. At the conclusion of his speech the chairman called for three cheers for Debs and after they had been given, Morton Rankin, the treasurer of the populist's national committee, called for three more for "our next governor," to which there was a hearty response.

Will Tax Bicycles.

WHITINSVILLE, Mass., May 4.—The assessors of the town of North Briggs have decided to tax bicycles. They estimate that there are 300 bicycles in town valued at $25,000. Wheelmen expect the money to be used in improving the roads and will not object.

Burned to Death.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 4.—Mrs. Marnlory McIntyre, aged seventy years, was burned to death in the Glen house, which was destroyed early today.

A. P. A. Rioters Indicted.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 4.—The grand jury has returned indictments against the chief participants in the Catholic and American Protective association election day riot. Jerry M. Pate, D. A. Pike, E. L. Coleman and another participant in the riot, who is not yet in custody, were indicted for murder in the first degree, and O. M. Bingham and C. C. Ott were indicted for assault with intent to kill. The jury censured the police department.

OUR EX-MAYOR TALKS.

He Wanted to Enforce the Laws But Dared Not.

While Home With His Sick Baby the "Machine" Counted Him Out Shamefully.

Mayor Scherer this morning called at THE SENTINEL office and asked a SENTINEL representative to state that he was misinformed as to the hour in which Mayor Oakley was to be sworn in yesterday or he would have been present at the ceremony. He waited about the city hall all morning and was there again in the afternoon.

Mr. Scherer also stated to the reporter that he desires the public to know that he would have enforced the laws if he had been given any support at all by his colleagues. He said that it was no trick to close the saloons and that he repeatedly urged his advisors to push the matter, but they would give him no support. He also stated that he intended to be a candidate for mayor, but when he was home with his sick baby, which died, the "machine" counted him out in a shameful and underhand way.

Mr. Scherer will return to private life and devote his entire attention to his carriage business.

DIVORCES GALORE.

Two Granted and Three Commenced in the Courts.

Slander Suit Settled in the Superior Court—Other Legal News in the City.

In the circuit court this morning Rosetta McAfee was given a divorce from Winfield McAfee. The plaintiff was awarded the custody of the children. Leonard Bros. were attorneys for the plaintiff.

Judge O'Rourke has given Emma B Howey a divorce from Edward F. Howey. Chester Holder was the plaintiff's attorney.

Mora Newton, through her attorney, Captain J. E. Graham, sues in the superior court for a divorce from Orlando A. Newton.

The slander suit begun in the Superior court by Thomas Wilkinson against John Langard has been settled and dismissed.

Last evening at his office Justice Wilkinson married Louis Hollman and Miss Ellen Underwood.

Siddie Snyder, through her attorney, W. H. Shambaugh, sues for a divorce in the circuit court from Frank Snyder. The parties were married last August, the plaintiff's maiden name being Miss Search.

Michael O'Shaunessy has begun suit for $15.00 against Thomas O'Shaunessy in the superior court. C. Holder is the attorney.

Justice Wilkinson having been advised that his term of office as justice of the peace continues until after the November election, will continue to act as such in his new quarters, room No. 9, Foster block, and be a candidate for re-election. He will not be an candidate for township trustee.

Mayor Oakley has appointed Justice France to preside at police court until he is able to attend to the duties.

Homer C. Hartman, as attorney for Mary J. Deppler, has brought suit in the circuit court against F. W. Schaden for $55, attorney fees charged by the latter in the Deppler divorce case.

LOCAL NEWS.

Sam Moffat has resigned his position as city editor of the Journal.

J. Wallace Caswell has been quite ill at his home in Columbia City for the past few days.

The institute for feeble minded youths is just now suffering from an epidemic of measels. There were five new cases yesterday. All the scarlet fever patients are getting along nicely. There has been no fatalities so far.

The following is a list of base ball games played yesterday and the scores: At Pittsburg—Pittsburg, 6; St. Louis, 2. At Cleveland—Cleveland, 7; Louisville, 2. At New York—New York, 4; Philadelphia, 7. At Baltimore—Baltimore, 8; Brooklyn, 3. At Washington—Washington, 8; Boston, 10.

A bolt of lightning struck the United Brethren church at Oak Grove, in Madison county, damaging the pretty little building to a serious extent. The same bolt prostrated Mrs. Wm. Harmon, who was seated in her doorway a short distance away, engaged in sewing. It is supposed that the needle which she was using attracted the electricity.

Last evening the Fort Wayne Cycling club held a rousing meeting at their club rooms and received applications for membership from Henry C. Neimeyer, Roy C. Trainor, Frank X. Mohr, M. C. Shelby, Earl Bonneville, E. J. Longfield, L. E. Bowles, Thomas H. Dascomb, Clem App, Edward Schele, James Houlihan and Christ Gotch. They were all elected to membership. A committee was selected to confer with Mayor Oakley and the park commissioners with regard to securing a part of the old fair grounds for the use of wheelmen. A petition will be circulated for financial aid to further the project. It is the intention to construct a fine bicycle racing course.

WANT HIS RESIGNATION.

Republicans to Ask City Attorney B. F. Ninde to Step out.

Mayor Oakley Makes Known His Entire List of Appointments—All Very Favorable But One.

The republican administration began to bustle about the city hall this morning and it was very evident that the ins were in and the outs were out.

Ex-Mayor Scherer turned over the keys of the office to Colonel Oakley and A. J. You, who is to be clerk of the board of public works, was present in the office smiling and affable as is his wont.

THE SENTINEL last night gave the list of appointees under the new order of things and subsequent developments go to prove they were right. The complete list as announced by Mayor Oakley today is as follows:

City Attorney—Ben J. Ninde.

Controller—J. H. Simonson.

Board of Public Safety—D. N. Foster, Charles Bash and R. B. Rossington, (dem.)

Board of Public Health—Dr. Stemen, Dr. VanBuskirk (dem.) and Dr. Greenawalt.

Board of Public Works—Thomas DeVilbiss, Levi Griffith and Willis Hattersley (dem.)

James A. Liggett can have the place of superintendent of police.

Elliott S. Underhill will be clerk of the board of public safety.

It is understood that the fire department will not be subjected to any change.

City Clerk-elect Jeffries has filed his bond in the sum of $1,000, signed by Hon. J. B. White and B. W. Skelton. He has retained Dan McKendry, jr., as assistant clerk, for a time, at least. Mr. Jeffries says he will devote his entire attention to the conduct of his office.

ASKED TO RESIGN.

The appointment of Ben F. Ninde as city attorney by Mayor Oakley created so much dissatisfaction among the republican leaders that this morning, when it had been learned that Mr. Ninde had accepted the proffered place, about fifty republicans called upon Mayor Oakley at the city hall and demanded that Mr. Ninde be asked to resign. Mayor Oakley stated that as the place had been offered to him he could remain if he so chose. As a result a committee of five was appointed to wait upon Mr. Ninde and ask him to give way to some one else. Just who the "some one else" will be is not absolutely certain, but it is thought it will be Attorney James Harper, as he appears to be the choice of the leaders of the party. Mr. Ninde is at present out of the city, visiting his sister at Indianapolis, and in what light he will view this proceeding can only be conjectured.

It has been decided that City Engineer Randall will remain in his present position for the next few months, at least.

Dr. Greenawalt has refused to accept a place on the board of public health and charities and Mayor Oakley will make another choice.

It is known that Comptroller Simonson's deputy will be John Evans.

MISS SPENCER WILL STAY.

Permission From the Secretary of the Interior.

[Indianapolis News]

Pension Agent Spencer has returned from Washington. He talks unreservedly of his interview with Secretary of the Interior Smith concerning the appointment in the Indianapolis office. It will be recalled that the pension commissioner held that Mr. Spencer's sister, who had been appointed to office under her brother, could not be retained. Concerning the interview on this point, Mr. Spencer said:

"Secretary Smith said there was a general rule excluding female relatives of agents from employment as clerks in pension offices. He said that the reason for this rule was that the privilege of such appointment had been abused. He told of an instance where one agent had appointed his sister and given her authority to sign checks. He immediately started on a trip to Europe, and not one check or communication was returned to the department with the agent's signature. In other instances the secretary had found female relatives of the agents drawing large salaries and doing no work, and he therefore had directed that this abuse should cease. He said that in my case he had every reason to believe that there was no such state of facts, and would not be, but no rule could be made to apply to any one agency. I had an interview of some length, and found Mr. Smith a pleasant and extremely agreeable gentleman, and I am quite sure that if people knew him they would not feel so hard toward him as many seem to feel."

"Under the ruling, then, does your sister stay?"

"My sister, by his permission, will be retained for the present."

"For how long?"

"I am not able to say."

Miss Ella J. Spencer, who was in the office, said she thought she was in the city to stay. She had resigned an important place in Fort Wayne and had come to Indianapolis with her brother, with whom she had always lived. Mr. Spencer remarked that his sister was acquainted with business affairs and been constantly employed since she came into the office.

In response to questions as to whether Indiana congressmen had interfered with appointments to the office, Mr. Spencer said that he had had no difficulty with any congressman or senator; that they had made several requests of him and had recommended many persons for appointment. Some had been appointed and some had been refused, and to all congressmen he had said that appointees must be competent persons.

GAVE HIMSELF UP.

Quite a Surprise at the Police Station.

A United States Army Deserter Tired of Being Hunted Down—Thought to Be Daft.

This morning at police station the officers were surprised at a plainly dressed young man, apparently a foreigner, who walked boldly in and, addressing Officer Limecooley, said:

"I want to be locked up."

"Why so," asked Limecooley, "what have you done?"

"Well, never mind; they are after me and won't give me any rest, and I might as well give myself up one time as another. Will you lock me up?"

"O, certainly," said Limecooley. "We are very accommodating over here just now, particularly since last Tuesday. You can have the finest cell in the house."

A SENTINEL representative had a talk with the stranger a few moments later. He said:

"My name is Alex. P. Steel and I am a native of Denmark. I was a soldier in the regular United States army and was stationed at Madison barracks, New York, until about a month ago, when I walked out one day and came west."

"Oh! You are a deserter, then?"

"No, I am not. Although I enlisted for five years I just walked out in broad day light. A deserter has to sneak away in the night. I got tired of being hunted down from place to place, so I just walked in here and gave myself up."

The fellow seems to be a trifle daft, but at the same time talks quite rationally. He came here from Columbus, Ohio.

Saturday's Sentinel.

Women in different parts of the United States are now striking telling blows for their sex and one by one they are securing those privileges which some of their leaders have been demanding for so long a time. "Political Equality" is their rallying cry and they will not be satisfied until they can cast their ballot for all the offices, municipal, state and national, chosen at the elections. Tomorrow's SENTINEL will give an interesting account of the campaign now being waged in New York by the society women of the Metropolis for the elimination of the word "male" from the state constitution. In connection with the article THE SENTINEL will give pictures of Mary A. Livermore, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lillie Devereux Blake, three of the most prominent leaders of the movement in the Empire state.

Interest is now beginning to center, with the opening of the season, in base ball and the race for the league pennant. Who will win it? is the talk of the many who watch the scores of the clubs as published each day in the newspapers, and this question will continue to be asked until the season closes and the contest is decided. Each Saturday's SENTINEL gives the history and strength of one of the clubs in the league and tomorrow we will have an article about the famous Brooklyn club, which this year has a strong aggregation of players. The article will give a portrait of each one of the players and their personal history. The new acquisitions made this year make the club an important factor in the great contest for the pennant and their playing will be carefully watched by base ball readers.

One wife is often too much for some men, especially if that wife is of the kind that makes home life miserable. Tomorrow's SENTINEL will tell of a man who had five wives and they were as like as five peas in a pod. They had the same figure, the same complexion, and looked so much alike that when they appeared in court at the trial of the fellow for bigamy, the judge couldn't tell the difference between them. Neither could the lawyers. The history of the case is an interesting one and tomorrow's SENTINEL will tell you all about, but just for the sake of showing that it is dangerous for a fellow to have more than one wife, at a time, we will say now that the fellow was given ten years in the penitentiary.

Space forbids us from speaking in detail of the other interesting articles which will be published in tomorrow's SENTINEL, among which will be a history of the rich Astor family, the hunting of the devil fish on the Pacific coast, the great Siberian railroad, Haunted Homes in Philadelphia, and other articles, with Bill Nye's always funny letter and the sermon of Rev. Talmage.

THE city is now working under the new charter.

BUILDING improvements are being pushed in different parts of the city.

A NEW daily paper has made its appearance at Newcastle, called the Evening News. It is controlled by M. A. Gillies, and is non-partisan in politics.

MEMORIAL day will be extensively celebrated in this city. Fort Wayne always does honor to the memory of her soldier dead in an appropriate manner.

JUDGING from the character of the men whom Mayor Oakley has selected as members of the board of public safety it is safe to say that the laws will be enforced.

SEVERAL of the judges and clerks at the late election in Chicago have been indicted by the grand jury. Men who tamper with the ballot box or attempt to corruptly influence votes deserve and should receive the severest punishment.

PUBLIC men in Washington believe that Breckinridge will be renominated by the democrats of his Kentucky district and re-elected. Public men are not always in touch with the people and the better classes in Kentucky may surprise them next fall.

WALTER S. PRATHER, who was defeated for mayor of North Vernon, is said to have held office for twenty six years in that city, the last six of which was spent in the mayor's chair. He was a candidate for re-election for a fourth term, and it is this which is said to account for the success of the democratic candidate to that office. According to the North Vernon Sun, there had been altogether too much of Mr. Prather.

H. H. KOHLSAAT has surrendered his controlling interest in the Chicago Inter Ocean. The price paid was $100,000. The entire interest now passes into the hands of Editor William Penn Nixon, R. S. Peale, the wealthy publisher, who some time ago consolidated his business with the Werner company, and a syndicate of ex-Philadelphia local republican politicians. The latter are affiliated with the Cameron-Quay element, and are understood to have found substantial backing among the anti-McKinley republicans in the east. John Wanamaker is said to be interested to the extent of $70,000. The paper will cease to be the special organ of Governor McKinley, and will, it is supposed, be favorable to Mr. Harrison's renomination. There is talk that Kohlsaat may be interested in a new morning paper to lead McKinley's cause in the west and northwest. It is stated that William Henry Smith will be trustee for the stockholders of the company.

How the Suez Canal Was Built.

A paper in The Cosmopolitan Magazine will tend rather to lessen sympathy in this country for old Count de Lesseps, whom the Panama canal scandal crazed and ruined. In that paper G. T. Ferris eloquently describes what he characterizes as "one of the most gigantic robberies in history." From the time of the inception of the canal till its close Egypt was systematically plundered by De Lesseps and his crowd, according to this authority.

Ferdinand de Lesseps was an engineer who had formerly been in the French diplomatic service. For 20 years before 1854 he had been brooding over the Suez canal project. Said Pasha was ruler of Egypt in 1854. With the beguilement of a serpent De Lesseps got around him. Said was feasted and feted in Paris and flattered till he thought the French were all angels. Without much trouble he gave De Lesseps the concession to build the canal. Under the stipulations the work was not to cost Egypt a cent. On the contrary, after the canal was completed, 15 per cent of the gross tolls should go to the Egyptian treasury. At the end of 99 years the whole canal was to revert to Egypt as its absolute property.

This seemed fair, very fair. The rest of the story is too long to be told here—how de Lesseps and his fellow conspirators got Said into their clutches and got money out of him, million after million, on one pretext after another. The plain fact was that at that time European capitalists did not believe in the canal and would not put up the money to build it.

De Lesseps and his gang fooled Said as if he had been a baby. When the Egyptian treasury was depleted, they got Said to sign obligations pledging the faith of the Egyptian government. On this they raised from European capitalists two-thirds the sum the viceroy promised to pay and went on. The work was carried on in the beginning by impressed Egyptian laborers, who were treated with inhuman cruelty.

Said died in 1864 and was succeeded by Ismail Pasha, with the title of khedive. He was squeezed and robbed just as Said had been, and the Suez canal finally cost him his throne. The canal, which was to have been constructed free of expense to Egypt, cost that wretched country $100,000,000 and the permanent loss of all her foreign commerce. And, after all the plundering of Egypt and the scheming of France, England is the nation that owns the canal.

The curious difference between east and west in this country was never more strikingly illustrated than by the treatment given in the two sections to the on to Washington armies. In the west they were fed and in some cases allowed to make their barracks in the town hall, which they scrubbed up carefully when they left. In some instances they were transported by freight train to the next camp, and band wagons and processions turned out to greet them. In the east they were in the main coldly received. In Frederick, Md., they were not allowed to parade in the streets.

There is no word whose meaning is more commonly misunderstood than "creole." It is not unusual for a northern person to look on a creole as a person with an infusion of negro blood. The fact is that the creole is one of the finest blooded people on this continent. He is of mixed French and Spanish parentage, being descended from the French and Spanish, who first peopled Louisiana. Many of them were of noble birth, and all possessed unusual culture and refinement.

How many American boys and girls know where Molly Pitcher, the revolutionary heroine, is buried? Probably not many grown people know. Her bones rest in Carlisle, Pa., and the citizens of that place have erected a monument to her. Her real name was Mollie McCauley, and she died at Carlisle in 1833, aged 79 years.

There are certainly millions of people now living who will see the trip between Europe and America made in four days at the most. Edison's plan for lubricating the sides of a ship so as to diminish the friction of salt water will probably be a help in shortening the time.

A curious incident showing the independent spirit of the Magyars occurred at the funeral of Kossuth. The bishop had forbidden the church bells in Kecskemet to be tolled while the funeral train was passing through the town. Immediately he received this answer from the inhabitants by telegraph: "Herr Bishop Schuster, Your Excellency—Command in your own house." Signed, "The people of Kecskemet."

Field and Farm of Denver accompanies with a comment the fact that the London chamber of commerce has requested Lord Rosebery to bring about the renewal of the Brussels monetary conference. Field and Farm's comment is as follows: "The sapheads of Europe are coming to their milk."

There is a difference between bravery and bravado.

The Baltimore Episcopal Methodist says: "Simmons' Liver Regulator is acknowledged to have no equal as a liver medicine, containing those Southern roots and herbs which an allwise Providence has placed in countries where liver diseases prevail."

CHAPTER X.

No part of the south witnessed so much of the wreck and misery of war as the Shenandoah valley. Its highways, fields and forests, its houses, barns and sheds, its every breeze by day and night for three long years, echoed the fierce shouts of contestants and the groans of wounded men. Nature made it a garden. War converted it into a vast graveyard.

The Federals had begun their march up the valley from Harper's Ferry. Jackson was ordered over to bar the way. Historians may write with prejudice and politicians speak in bitterness. Let us be fair and conscientious, even if we cannot be neutral. Jackson's first battle was on the broad fields of Kernstown. All historians who have written for the future have pronounced him a wonderful man in the science of war. Before his command was fairly in the valley Royal Kenton and others were far ahead, scouting for information. Their reports decided Jackson on moving swiftly up and attacking the Federals as they reached Kernstown. He was beaten back and fairly routed, but that was to be the first and only time.

As Jackson's own brigade swept forward into the fight Kenton was in the ranks of the Shenandoah guards. On his right was Steve Brayton, on his left Ike Baxter. He had known but little of his company since detailed for scout duty. He divined that Captain Wyle's bitterness had intensified, and that the prejudice against him among his comrades had rather increased with his absence. He had been detailed from his company, and his return to it as Jackson ordered an advance and everybody knew that a battle would be raging within a couple of hours proved his metal in the eyes of all. And yet not over a dozen men in the company had a nod or a word for him. Ike Baxter, under the tutorship of his master, was carrying out a plan to drive him out in disgrace.

"He un's yere for no good, and yo' kin lay to that!" Ike had whispered from man to man. "Jist yo' fellers keep yo'r eyes open! I'm gwine to do it, and if he un tries to play the traitor I'll put a bullet straight into his carcass! Mebbe he un kin fule Gineral Jackson, but he un can't play no Yankee tricks on me!"

As they marched forward on the highway Steve Brayton found opportunity to say:

"Look yere, Kenton. Ike's goin to play yo' some ornery trick if the chance comes, and yo'd better be ready for him. He un hates yo' like pizen, and he un's tryin to make all the rest do the same."

"I am aware of that," replied Kenton, "but can you tell me the reason for it?"

"Reckon thar ar' several. In the fust place, yo' didn't happen to be bo'n down yere, while Ike Baxter and the rest of us critters did. In the second, yo' took the shine out o' the officers at Bull Run. In the third, as nigh as I kin make out, thar's a gal in the case. Looks to me like Ike had been hired to talk agin yo'. At any rate, he's got the boys all stirred up, and yo'd better be keerful not to git too fur ahead of the crowd in case we hev a fout down yere!"

"How does it happen that you are not down on me with the rest?" asked Kenton.

"Reckon thar ar' several reasons in that too. Fustly, yo' could hev got away to the Yankee army if yo' had wanted to. Yo' didn't, and that's a party good sign yo' an ar' all right. Nextly, yo've got pluck, and I like a plucky man. Mo' nextly, the mo' men we hev the less chance of my bein hit myself. Lastly, I've seen Captain Wyle and Ike Baxter with their heads together about yo', and I've heard that both yo' and the captain was sweet on the same gal, and I've sorter put two and three together and made seven. I'm goin to be right alongside o' yo' in this fout, 'cause I like yo'r way o' fightin, but yo' jist mind what I tell yo'! The bullet which hits yo' today is liable to come from our side!"

Jackson's command, numbering not quite 6,000 men, made a rapid march of 40 miles down the valley to strike a blow at General Shields' command of 8,000. They were waiting for the Confederates. Jackson attacked at once.

Even while the rear of his marching column was still two miles away he attacked. It was a fierce and bitter fight. As daylight began to give way to twilight on that dismal March afternoon the guards were ordered to charge a battery which was making a portion of the Confederate line untenable. They dashed forward to be met by a volley which killed or wounded a dozen men, and a swift move on the part of a Federal regiment resulted in the capture of nearly one-half of the others. An hour later Jackson was retreating. He had been defeated.

Ike Baxter was among the wounded. With others he was taken to the field hospital to be cared for, while the unwounded were marched to the rear and placed under guard. Ike had been hit in the shoulder. While his hurt was being dressed he said to the surgeon:

"If a Yankee deserts to our side and fights agin yo' uns, what happens to he un if yo' captur' him?"

"He'd be shot!" was the blunt reply.

"But s'posin he un also played spy fur our side?"

"He'd be hung instead of shot! Do you know of such a case?"

"Reckon I do, and I feel it my dooty to tell yo' about him. Jist tell yo'r gineral to inquar among the prisoners fur a man named Kenton—Royal Kenton. He un's a Yankee deserter and a spy for General Jackson!"

"But why do you tell of it?" queried the surgeon.

"'Cause it ain't a fair deal."

Half an hour later Kenton was taken before General Shields under the charge made by Baxter. The latter had overreached himself. Had only the two been captured it would have been a different matter, but there were 20 of the guards who gave testimony in favor of Kenton, though it came from most of them grudgingly. A search of his person brought to light a pass from General Jackson in which he was mentioned as a scout.

"While you are cleared of the charge," said the general after a long examination, "how does it come about that you, a northern man, are found in the Confederate ranks?"

"I enlisted in the cause of Virginia, my adopted state," was the reply.

"But the cause of Virginia was and is unjust. She is guilty of treason. Every one of you under arms is a traitor to the government. The principle is so plain that no one need doubt."

"But there are doubts, sir. A large proportion of the northern people are doubtful, and some of the most influential of the northern papers contend for the right of secession."

The general could not gainsay that. The government was rushing troops into the field, and battles were being fought, but the principle was still being discussed, and men eminent as jurists, statesmen and journalists were still divided. Kenton was dismissed to be returned to his fellow prisoners. Only one guard accompanied him.

Half way between headquarters and the spot where the prisoners were being held under guard they encountered two men bringing in a wounded man on a stretcher. The victim proved to be the guard's brother. For a moment he forgot his prisoner, and when he had recovered from his excitement over the discovery he no longer had a prisoner. Kenton had walked off into the darkness and made good his escape.

Royal Kenton a prisoner.

And now as the night drew on apace and the cold rain steadily beat down upon the battlefield parties of men went forth in search of the wounded. They cared not for the dead. At the front there is but little sentiment or sympathy for the wounded. They are cared for because many of them will recover to fight in some other battle. They were found in the open fields, in the furrows half full of water, in the deeper ditches skirting the forest, among the trees and bushes dripping with the rainfall. Some cried out in the darkness with the broken voices of lost children; others prayed or cursed or wept. And here and there, with their faces buried in the grass or dirt or with faces upturned to the sky of night and eyes half open, were dead men, a thousand or more. The morrow would do for them. The dead of a battlefield ask nothing. The living give them a covering of a few inches of blood soaked soil, and give that grudgingly.

CHAPTER XI.

As before stated, Ike Baxter belonged to the class known at that time and still referred to as "poor whites." Through the efforts of his wife he had managed to hold on to a small farm just outside of Winchester, left him by his father, but it is doubtful if her arguments would have carried the day had any one made a cash offer for the few acres. While Ike always referred to himself as broken down by hard work, about five days out of every week had been spent tramping around the country with his gun or discussing "Yankees" and "niggers" in the village barrooms with others of his ilk. According to his own line of argument, he was a martyr. Ill luck had always followed him, even to the birth and death of triplets.

Mrs. Baxter also had a constitutional and ready made grievance. If she had been allowed to have her way about things, she always argued, they would long ago have been rich and owned niggers, "Yes, sah, real niggers and mo' or fewer $25 mewls."

Ike Baxter had also been granted a furlough, and according to the stories he told after reaching home the battle of Bull Run would not have been a victory without him. When anything was said about Kenton, he was prompt in replying:

"Durn the Yankee! But we uns has got our eyes open now, and he un can't play us no mo' tricks!"

He was so outspoken in his language, and his language was so bitter that Lawyer Wilbone and others were given an inkling of the true state of affairs. The lawyer found opportunity to inquire of Ike:

"Didn't my nephew enlist of his own accord, and is there a man in the company who has exhibited more bravery and won more of a reputation?"

"What did he un rush in and rally at Bull Run fur fer to' Duke Wyle could git thar?" demanded Ike in reply. "He un jist wanted to show off and make believe. And isn't he un givin us away to the Yanks all the time? And isn't he un talkin 'bout Gineral Jackson and holdin his head above us? And if he un gits the chance won't he un give up our hull army to Gineral McClellan? Oh, we uns has our eyes open fur him!"

Mrs. Baxter had got the idea from Ike's letters home that he had not only won a crown of fame under fire, but was holding the whole Federal army in check. She could read and write, but very poorly. She had picked up most of her information and all her military terms from others scarcely less ignorant. When Ike appeared in sight down the road, she ran to meet him and welcomed him with:

"Hurrah fur Gineral Ike Baxter, who fit and fit till the Yankees dun run away!"

"Don't yo' un know nothin?" angrily demanded Ike as he came nearer.

"Didn't yo' un fit and fit?"

"Of co'se I fit, but yo' needn't gab it all over Virginy and make other folks jealus!"

"What's yo'r stripes?" she asked.

"What stripes?"

"On yo'r arms—yo'r gineral stripes!"

"I hain't no gineral!"

"Yo' hain't? Why, I thought yo' was boss of the hull army! What's the matter yo' hain't no gineral?"

"What's the matter yo' ain't got no sense in yo'r head?"

"But yo' un's a corporal!"

"A major?"

"No."

"A leftenant?"

"No."

"Hain't yo' un nothin but jest common folks?" she persisted.

"No."

"Didn't I allus say yo' un had no sperrit about yo', and that's why we was allus poo and low down?" she bitterly exclaimed as they passed into the house. "Ike Baxter, yo' hain't shucks! Yo' un's low down, and yo' like to stay right thar! Everybody else is comin home with gineral's and corporal's and major's stripes on thar sleeves, but yo' has dun let 'em walk yo' inter the mud and hain't got no sperrit to resent it! If I'd gone down thar, I'd hev come back as big as anybody! I've dun told everybody yo' un was a gineral and now—now yo's only jest common!"

Mrs. Baxter sat down and wept and used her apron for a handkerchief. Ike had expected just such a reception, and he had a plan to develop at the proper time. While she continued to weep he helped himself to a bite to eat from the cupboard and maintained silence.

"And why didn't they make a gineral of yo'?" asked Mrs. Baxter after about 10 minutes.

"If yo' un dun had any sense in yo' head, I could tell yo'," he sullenly replied.

"Sense! Sense! If I hain't got sense, who has? If it hadn't bin fur my sense, we uns would hev bin right down to tater skins y'urs ago! It's my sense that has kept us outer the poorhouse and let us hold our heads up with the best of 'em! Leastwise I've allus held my head up, even if yo' hain't!"

"It's this way," said Ike as he continued to eat and reflect. "It's corporal, sergeant, orderly sergeant, leftenant, captain, major, kurnel and gineral. Takes a heap o' time to git up thar! Everybody has got to begin way down."

"But yo's not even a corp—corporal yit!" she exclaimed as one eye filled with tears of disappointment.

"And what's the reason I hain't? Do yo' un remember that Yankee lawyer who lived yere—feller named Kenton?"

"Seems like I did."

"He un's to blame. Tried to git us all captur'd at Bull Run. Tried to put all the officers down. Got in with Gineral Jackson and talked agin us, particularly me. Reckon he un said a heap 'bout yo', too, while he un was at it. If it hadn't bin fur he un, I'd hev had stripes on my arms—heaps o' stripes—and yo'd bin proud o' me. It's jest he un that keeps me down. We all hate he un, but him's got Gineral Jackson on his side."

"The pesky varmint!" she gasped, with uplifted hands. "He un's all to blame then?"

"All to blame."

"Talked about me to Gineral Jackson! What could he un say?"

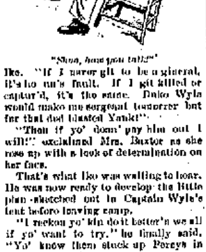
"Dunno, but I reckon he un went on 'bout yo' gwine b'arfut to church and dippin snuff and gaddin 'bout and complainin. He un rubbed it in on both o' us powerful hard, most likely. Befo' that Gineral Jackson was as good as pie to me, but after that he un wouldn't dun notice me 'tall!"

"Then—then it's the Yankee who dun keeps yo' all back?" she asked after taking a couple of minutes for reflection.

"Jest he un alone," answered Ike as he finished his snack.

"And yo' all hain't got spunk nuff to drive he un out! Dun Ike Baxter, yo' un allow that he un let folks walk yo' inter the mud, but I didn't reckon it was as bad as this! Fur shame on yo'!"

"How's we all to drive he un when Gineral Jackson is in the way?" asked Ike. "If I never git to be a gineral, it's he un's fault. If I git killed or captur'd, it's the same. Duke Wyle would make me sergeant tomorrer but fur that dun blasted Yank!"



"Shoo, how you talk!"

"Then if yo' don't pay him out I will!" exclaimed Mrs. Baxter as she rose up with a look of determination on her face.

That's what Ike was waiting to hear. He was now ready to develop the little plan sketched out in Captain Wyle's tent before leaving camp.

"I reckon yo' kin do it better'n we all if yo' want to try," he finally said. "Yo' know them stuck up Percys in town, of co'se?"

"Of co'se."

"He un's in luv with the gal."

"I heard that yisterday."

"If we all could break it up, it would flatten he un out. Jest think of a southern gal lovin a reg'lar Yankee spy, and probably goin to marry him, when she could hev Duke Wyle!"

"Shoo, how you talk!"

"And if we all could flatten him out I'd soon be a gineral and prance around on a hoss," continued Ike. "Drat him, but he talked about yo' to Gineral Jackson, and that's what hurts me mo' than t'other!"

"How kin I flatten him out?" she asked, ready to begin work at once.

Ike slowly lighted his pipe and sat down on the doorstep and made room for her beside him. He kept her waiting for another minute and then unfolded his plan. She listened patiently until he was through and then pointed out the obstacles here and there. He reviewed the case and explained how everything was to be overcome. Although an ignorant woman, she had a good deal of natural shrewdness in her composition, and after the plan had been gone over in detail for the third or fourth time she said:

"I'll try it anyhow. I hev allus dun hated Yanks like pizen, and that Percy gal is jest too stuck up fur anything! Might do her a heap o' good to come down a few pegs! If I flatten he un out, that will make yo' a gineral?"

"I reckon."

"And yo'll ride around on a critter and w'ar a cocked hat?"

"Yes."

"And buy me two new kaliker dresses, a bonnet, a pa'r of shoes, a—"

"Yo'll jest be richness and wealth and look like a queen!" said Ike as she hesitated.

"Then I'll do it if I hev to walk through fire, and p'raps I'll ride around on a critter too!"

CHAPTER XII.

Panic does not always follow defeat. Indeed it seldom does. A battle is a checkerboard wherein all the spots are marked with blood. The checkers are men—men lying in reserve, men on the battle lines, men charging on lines or center.

The generals in command watch the board. If one makes a move on the right or left, the other seeks to take advantage of it. For the time being they shut their ears to the roar of battle, shut their eyes to the sight of dead and wounded. Beauregard halted at the threshold of victory at Shiloh. So with McClellan at Antietam. At Fredericksburg Lee permitted Burnside to retreat after defeat. At Gettysburg Meade did the same with Lee. Jackson had thrown himself against Shields at Kernstown on the right, on the left, on the center. He could not break the line anywhere. He left his dead along a front of a mile and a half, but the sacrifice was in vain. It was military tactics to retreat—to fall back to a strong position and oblige Shields to attack him or give over his march up the valley. There is sometimes more generalship in a retreat than in an advance or in fighting a battle. The trains must be saved, the broken and disorganized commands picked up and re-formed, the best troops sent to the rear to stand as a bulwark between the exhausted army and the enthusiastic enemy.

Jackson left nothing behind him—artillery, wagons or muskets—worth gathering up and reporting. Most of his wounded were carried up the valley as he fell back. Shields followed slowly, and the rear guard had no fighting to do. The panic of an army, of an army corps even, is a terrible sight, but the panic of a town is something which no one can fitly describe. The news of Jackson's defeat preceded him, and when he reached Winchester it was to find a town wild with fear and crazed by terror. War was young then. In after years the old town changed hands without a tremor, gathered up the dead off its streets and buried them as part of the regular programme.

"The Yankees are coming! The town will be given up to sack! Winchester is to be burned, and women and children must flee!"

So rose the cry from house to house. Some locked their doors and rode away on horseback or in their carriages. Others left their doors wide open and took the turnpike to the south on foot, carrying whatever they had at first laid hands on as a burden. Furniture was brought out and piled in the streets and set fire to, and had not Jackson's advance arrived as it did the people of the town would have applied the torch to their own rooftrees. The Yankee soldier was popularly supposed to be without honor or pity—a ruffian who stopped at no crime. Jackson paused to refresh himself and allay the excitement. Those who had not fled decided to remain, though fearful of consequences, but the general excitement scarcely abated.

The Percys were among the first to hear of Jackson's defeat and the news that the Federal army was following him up and would soon be in Winchester. They were scared, but not terrified.

"We will remain right here, and we shall not be disturbed," said Marian to her mother. "The Federals have not burned towns elsewhere nor made war on women and children, and they will not do so here. We have no cause to be afraid."

Neither had they, but circumstances which could not be foreseen soon caused a change in the programme. Among Jackson's troops was the remnant of the Shenandoah guards. All the house servants about the Percy mansion were colored people and slaves. Like others of their color, the general excitement had made them half crazy. They had left the house for the street to see and hear and were ready to catch up and believe the most absurd tale. There were two men and four women. Buck, who was a young man of 25, joined a party of the fleeing inhabitants hurrying up the valley. Uncle Ben, as he was called, was a man of 60, born and reared in the Percy family, and though sharing to some extent in the general excitement he would not leave his post of duty. He had said to the female servants:

"I neber dun did see no Yankees in all my life, but I hain't gwine to be afraid an run away. I didn't bring on dis wah. I hain't killed nobody. What dem Yankees want to hurt me fur? Miss Marian hain't skeered. Her mudder hain't skeered. If dey hain't skeered, what yo' all want to be skeered fur?"

The four women were on a street corner in a group when Captain Wyle passed by and recognized them as belonging to the Percy family. He had heard from the gossips of the town long ago that Kenton was to carry off the prize. He had written to Marian with considerable fervor and without mentioning the news, and she had replied in a very brief and formal manner. To revenge himself on a woman was quite foreign to his nature, but as he saw the four servants and noted their state of alarm he remembered that he and Ike Baxter had a plan to carry out. Ten minutes later one of his company was saying to the colored women:

"The Yankees are only a couple of miles away! If you all don't hurry, you will be taken prisoners, and that means that every one of you will be burned at the stake! They shoot down white folks and burn niggers!"

That was sufficient to start them off to join the fleeing throng. Not one of them returned to the house. Jackson sent out couriers to advise the panic stricken people to return, but hundreds had gone too far to be overtaken. Among them were the four women. Shields entered Winchester without opposition. Within an hour the excitement had subsided. The Yankee soldiers had neither burned nor looted. No one was molested nor made afraid. Where timid women requested it guards were placed at their doors, and instead of the merchants being robbed and ruined, as most of them had fully expected, their properties were safely cared for.

"Didn't I dun told you all so!" exclaimed Uncle Ben on the street that evening as he was out looking for the missing servants. "Yankees am jist as same folks as anybody. I'ze bin lookin at heaps of 'em, an I can't see no difference. All dem folks who got skeered an run'd away was fools! Yankees hain't gwine to hurt nobody unless yo' unbehave yo'self fust!"

Captain Wyle knew where to find Ike Baxter's wife. She had moved into town two weeks before, leaving the farm to take care of itself. That was one of the points in the plan presented by Ike and accepted by her. She knew that Jackson had been beaten and was on the retreat, but she did not know of the fate of Ike and many of his comrades. Some of those who escaped both death and capture had seen Ike go down, and it was certain he had fallen into Federal hands. Mrs. Baxter fell to sobbing as she heard the news from the captain, but her sorrow did not last long.

"Drat that Ike fur a fool!" she suddenly exclaimed as grief gave place to indignation. "Didn't he un promise me last thing befo' him went back that if him ever got into another fout he un would scrouch down so the bullets would fly over him? Wall, in him—all his wantin to hev his own way spite of all I kin do!"

"Ike and the others would have been all right if they had not been betrayed," observed the captain.

"Shoo, that's what Ike was afraid of! Was it that Yankee agin—that Lawyer Kenton?"

The captain nodded his head.

"Ike hates him. So do I. If he un hadn't stood in Ike's way, Ike would hev bin a gineral befo' this. The onery skunk, to betray his own comrades! If I could git hands on he un, I'd kill him! I'll never rest till I hev his life, even if Ike lets up!"

"Have you seen the—the Percys lately?" asked the captain as Mrs. Baxter got ready for another wave of sorrow.

"Did Ike tell yo'?" she whispered.

"Partly."

"I've bin tryin to do as we planned, but couldn't fetch it. Ike thought as I might get a place in the house, but they uns hev got too many niggers fur that."

"All their women have cut and run—not one left. If you should happen to offer your services there now, I think they'd be accepted."

"Shoo, nigger women all gone?"

"I know it for a fact."

"I'll go over thar this very hour!" said Mrs. Baxter as she reached for her sunbonnet. "Capting, was Ike right when he said this yere Yankee stood in his way?"

"Yes, he was."

"Was he right when he said if we uns could git the Percy gal to hate him he would bother nobody no mo'?"

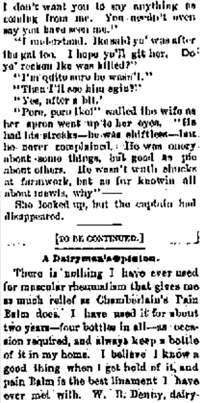
"Yes."

"If the Yankee was shot or killed or suthin, would Ike ride around on a critter and dangle a sword?"

"It's quite likely. What plan have you got?"

"Jest leave that to me! Mebbe I haven't got any, and mebbe I've got a heap of 'em!"

"Here is what you are to remember," he said as he rose up to go. "If it hadn't been for Kenton, not a man in our company would have been killed or captured."



"Would Ike ride around on a critter and dangle a sword?"

"And what become of he un?"

"Oh, he was captured, too, but of course that was all a trick. However, I don't want you to say anything as coming from me. You needn't even say you have seen me."

"I understand. Ike said yo' was after the gal too. I hope yo'll git her. Do yo' reckon Ike was killed?"

"I'm quite sure he wasn't."

"Then I'll see him agin!"

"Yes, after a bit."

"Poor, poor Ike!" wailed the wife as her apron went up to her eyes. "He had his streaks—he was shiftless—but he never complained. He was onery about some things, but good as pie about others. He wasn't wuth shucks at farmwork, but as fur knowin all about mewls, why"—

She looked up, but the captain had disappeared.

A Dairyman's Opinion.

There is nothing I have ever used for muscular rheumatism that gives me as much relief as Chamberlain's Pain Balm does. I have used it for about two years—four bottles in all—as occasion required, and always keep a bottle of it in my home. I believe I know a good thing when I get hold of it, and Pain Balm is the best liniment I have ever met with. W. B. Denny, dairyman, New Lexington, Ohio. 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

A Popular Remedy.

The promptness and certainty of its cure have made Chamberlain's Cough Remedy famous. It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is the most effectual remedy known for these diseases. Mr. C. B. Main, of Union City, Pa., says: "I have a great sale on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I warrant every bottle and have never heard of one failing to give entire satisfaction." 50 cent bottles for sale by druggists.

John Pauley, of the Rich, states that the charter of the new hotel men's union closed yesterday with eighty-four members. An effort will be made to secure some strong legislation against dead beats.

Captain Allan Dougal's lecture at the Y. M. C. A. last evening upon the subject of "Alaska," was highly entertaining and was enjoyed by a good sized audience. The captain exhibited a number of curios from this far off land.

Powers & Barnett, of this city, have gone in a deal with Kansas City parties for the purchase of the Kansas City Transfer line. The property is said to represent $35,000. Messrs. Powers and Crane are now in Kansas City looking up the deal.

Yesterday forty-two Knights Templar graves were decorated with wreaths and flowers by Fort Wayne Commandery, No. 4. In the evening an eloquent Ascension day sermon was preached before the commandery by Rev. A. W. Seabrease at the Trinity Episcopal church.

This morning, about 7:30 o'clock, a small boy with a sling shot badly damaged one of the large plate glass windows in front of Fred Eckart's meat market. Just who the boy is who did the mischief is not known. The police talked with a number of lads but could get but little satisfaction.

A. T. Reynolds, C. R. Coulter and Charles Locke, of Toledo, arrived in the city last evening on their bicycles from Toledo. They are en route for San Francisco, and are riding their wheels the entire distance. They are advertising the Yost Cycle company's machines. They were entertained at the Randall and later at the Cycling club rooms.

The Shamrock Literary club ball this evening promises to be the event of the season. Over five hundred invitations have been issued and the club has spared no expense to make this one of the best social events of the year. Parties from Lafayette, Huntington, Peru and Defiance, Ohio, will be in attendance. The hall has been tastefully decorated and Reineke's orchestra will furnish the music.

Rezin Orr, president of the street car men's union, came home from Indianapolis last evening, where he has been for the past four days attending a meeting of the various labor organizations of the state. Mr. Orr says that the prospects are more favorable for the laboring men than a month or so ago. While in Indianapolis Mr. Orr visited the camp of General Fry and says that in his opinion most of the men are honest, straightforward laboring men and not bums.

This morning while riding his bicycle on West Washington street, William Hollinbeck, son of the Calhoun street saloonkeeper, was run into by Dr. Arthur Dodge's horse and buggy. Young Hollinbeck did not see Dodge until too late. The wheel was smashed. Hollinbeck was not seriously hurt.

Said a prominent citizen this morning: "The first thing the new city council should do is to revoke the license of every saloonkeeper who keeps girls about his place. There are any number of these in the city and many of them are located in the very heart of the city, on Calhoun street. These dens are a disgrace."

Probably just at present there are several thousand sore arms in the city, and the physicians have been doing a land office business of late vaccinating. Most of the physicians have had an average of from fifty to sixty per day and some as high as 100. Dr. J. E. Miller, city health officer, had up to last night vaccinated 950 persons. The greater number of these were school children.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. K. Zartman in the presence of a number of guests. The bride wore a becoming gown of white silk and carried bride roses. The maid of honor was Miss Lillie Waller, who was costumed in white India broche. Mr. Harry Andrews acted as best man. An elaborate dinner was served after the wedding and at 2:25 Mr. and Mrs Mullen left for Elkhart.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The last business transacted at the convention of clubs at Indianapolis was the election of officers, which took place yesterday morning. The candidates for president were Mrs. Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City and Mrs. Watson Webb Woollen, of Indianapolis. The contest between these two was close, the former receiving a majority of four votes. The officers elected are as follows:

President—Virginia C. Meredith, of Cambridge City.

Vice President—J. E. Hill, of Richmond.

Secretary and Treasurer—W. A. Branyan, Huntington.

Chairman of Program Committee—Miss Katharine Merrill, Indianapolis.

Members of Program Committee—M. W. Sampson, Bloomington; N. A. Hyde, Indianapolis; Mrs. A. B. Millard, Crawfordsville; Mrs. A. D. Guild, Fort Wayne.

Although this brought the convention to a close many of the delegates remained in the city to attend the receptions, one given at the Propylaeum by the Woman's club from 2 to 4 o'clock, and another held at the Columbia club by the Katharine Merrill and Century clubs from 3 until 5 o'clock. The delegates will return from Indianapolis today.

To Miss Polly Harvey.

I know my cast, Miss Harvey, though
 A dozen times I've seen and read it—
(I think—I don't mind telling you—
 It did its clever author credit;)
And knowing this, of course I know
 How Polly Eccles should be rendered,
Wherefore for your delightful show
 My thanks and praise are hereby tendered.
'Twere nothing short of flabby folly
To speak a word against your Polly.
Tom Robertson, there's little doubt,
 Intended Polly to be merry,
A Polly, gayety without,
 I difficult to picture, very.
I'm sure he meant her to be bright.
 Or else I marvel why he made her,
Be sure, then, you have acted right,
 Miss H., in having brightly played her.
I thank you for a bright, a jolly,
A sweet, large-hearted, pretty Polly.
 The Call Boy, in London Judy.

Promote this Brakeman.

Thomas Collins, a freight brakeman on the Wabash, saved the life of a child in the yard at Wabash last week. The engine of Collins' train was backing in on a siding, and the three-year-old son of George Pfeil ran on the track in front of the locomotive. Collins was riding on the brake beam. Seeing the peril of the child he held on with one hand, and, reaching down with the other, lifted the youngster out of the jaws of death as the mother came screaming down the track.

The Bass Works Sells Four Big Boilers—The Students of Purdue—The Clerks Play Ball Tomorrow.

Engine 145 left the Pittsburg shops last evening, after thorough repairs.

Philip Donahy, of the Pittsburg shop, was taken with slight hemorrhage this morning and had to quit work.

Quint McNabb, formerly superintendent of bridges of the Big Four, is quite ill at his home in Terre Haute.

F. P. Sargent, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, has gone westward on official business.

Pat Scully and George Burchard, members of the iron machine force of the Pittsburg shops, have laid off to fish a day or two.

Clarence Nulf has resigned as fireman at the factory of Rhinesmith & Simonson to take a position on the Pittsburg road.

C. F. Dyer has been appointed engineer at the Feeble Minded institute. Formerly he was an employe of the Pittsburg road.

W. R. Wilson, engineer at the planing mills of Diether Bros., is the father of a boy baby. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson reside at 189 West Superior street.

Machinist P. J. Singleton slipped while working in the Pittsburg shops yesterday and severely sprained his back. He is unable to walk today.

M. C. Tierney, who has charge of the engine room at the Pittsburg machine shop, will be initiated into Fort Wayne lodge, No. 19, A. O. U. W. this evening.

John M. Egan, who on May 1 retired from the Chicago and Great Western, will, it is thought, accept a position offered him on the Great Northern road.

A. Rauner, who has been sick and off duty nearly all winter, resumed his work in the Pittsburg blacksmith shop this morning. He suffers with the asthma.

The electric light boys have obtained permission of the Wabash officials to use the vacant ground west of the round house for base ball purposes and this morning staked off the diamond.

Charles Moses, a machinist, of the Chicago and Erie shops at Huntington was the guest last evening of Machinist Jacob Gehring, of the Wabash shops. Mr. Moses was en route to Garrett City, where his parents reside.

A New York paper revives the report that Samuel Felton, jr., is to be placed at the head of the reorganized Erie. Mr. Felton was at one time the first vice president of that company and knows the road thoroughly.

W. T. Reed, superintendent of motive power of the Chicago and Great Western, retired May 1, and is succeeded by Tracy Lyons. W. A. Love, assistant to the president, has also resigned, and is succeeded by Geo. H. Mead.

Foreman Ward Kemp, of the Pittsburg lumber yards, has built a handsome flower bed in the yard east of his office. The bed is Keystone shape, and when the flowers are in place and blooming it will be very beautiful.

The understanding now is that the Elkhart and Western, now built from Elkhart to Mishawaka, is to be extended to South Bend and connected with the Vandalia. The portion of road built is constructed in the most substantial manner.

An election was held in the township, at Martinsville, Morgan county, Wednesday, to decide whether a subsidy of $48,000 should be given to the proposed Indianapolis, Bloomington and Bedford railroad. The vote was three to one against the appropriation.

The Pennsylvania officials are out on an inspection of their western lines. The party consists of Vice Presidents McCrea, Brooks and Davidson, General Manager Joseph Wood and General Superintendent Miller. They attended a railroad meeting at Indianapolis yesterday.

As predicted by The Sentinel some days ago, William Boling has been appointed cashier of the Lake Shore at this point and has already assumed the duties of the office. Mr. Boling held a clerical position in Agent Philley's office for a number of years. He is a worthy and capable young man.

Engine 142 is in the Pittsburg shops for repairs. Yesterday, near Adams station, while hauling eastbound passenger train No. 20, the engine struck some ties which had been carelessly left too near the tracks, and her pilot beam was broken. The train was delayed until Engineer I. B. Adams could return with his engine and get another.

On account of rain two weeks ago the game of ball between Messrs. Potter's and Atterbury's clerks was postponed until tomorrow afternoon. It will surely take place at that time, providing the weather is favorable. Each party has selected a strong team and each is confident of sucess. The game will be called at 2 o'clock, sharp, and will be umpired by Messrs. W. W. Atterbury and J. E. Brown. Mr. Potter's nine is as follows: Catcher, Bennington; pitcher, Patterson; first base, Smith; second base, Humphrey; third base, Leary; short stop, Rippa; right field, Grimmons; center field, Bittenger, and left field, Schmuckle. Mr. Atterbury's nine: Catcher, Dasoler; pitcher, Fry; first base, Scott; second base, Cutschall; third base, Smith; short stop, Sweringen; right field, Cherry; center field, Sinclair, and left field, Keplinger.

One thousand men have been discharged from the Canadian Pacific railroad service between Montreal and Vancouver, owing to slackness of business. It is reported that the company intends to remove its shops from Winnipeg to Fort Williams and divert the main line via Selkirk, in order to cut off two sides of a triangle now covered via Winnipeg.

First Vice President W. R. Shelby, General Manager J. H. P. Hughart, Superintendent P. S. O'Rourke, Trainmaster J. W. Hunter, Master Mechanic James E. Keegan and Roadmaster J. Leavy left this city at 8 o'clock this morning on a steam hand car for Richmond, Ind. They will make a thorough inspection of the southern division of the road, returning here tomorrow night.

The Purdue students spent several hours in the Pittsburg shops today. Master Mechanic W. W. Atterbury being out of the city, the duty of entertaining the visitors devolved upon Mr. D. F. Crawford, who piloted them through the shops and pointed out and explained the most interesting features. The air brake instruction car, which was detained here purposely for the students' benefit, was the most interesting and instructive feature of the visit of the boys to this city.

A special train, bearing the congressional committee appointed to attend the funeral of the late Senator Stockbridge, which occurred at Kalamazoo yesterday, came down from that city last evening and transferred the party to the Pittsburg, going east on No. 8. Senators Cullom, Washburn, Gibson and McMillan and Representatives Thomas, Aiken, Burrows, Linton, Richardson, Bynum and Payne composed the party and they will reach Washington today.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Konsill, of Helena, Montana, are visiting friends in this city and are stopping at present with Mr. and Mrs. John Kepina. Mr. Konsill is at present employed as engineer on the Northern Pacific, mountain division. Eighteen years ago he was employed as engineer on the Pittsburg road, but left here to take service with the Baltimore and Ohio road, and seven years later went to Montana where he has resided ever since. All the old employes of the Pittsburg know Mr. Konsill, and are giving him a hearty welcome.

Business with the Bass company is beginning to show signs of activity. Yesterday the firm sold a large Corliss engine and this morning it received an order for four 150 horse power boilers. J. E. Noble, the traveling agent, and F. A. Kider, master mechanic, went to Youngstown, Ohio, last evening to put in a bid on a steam plant. Other bids are out, with a fair prospect of some of them being accepted, and taken as a whole the situation is decidedly an improvement over the conditions which prevailed the last quarter of the old year and first quarter of the new.

SOME GROUNDS FOR ENCOURAGEMENT.

James McCrea, first vice president of the Pennsylvania company, in conversation with a reporter of the Indianapolis Journal, said that in going over their lines he could see some grounds for encouragement. One was that people were investing money more freely in real estate, and this would lead to a loosening of money for speculative purposes, but the improvement in all lines would be slow. The first three weeks in April business with the the Pennsylvania lines was better than in the first three weeks in March, and he thought that this was true with other railway systems. The strike of the coal miners had given the roads another set back. One large coal operator had said that two weeks would end it, another four weeks and another seemingly equally well posted, thought it might continue indefinitely. He thought the miners had some grounds for striking, and this the coal operators admit, and both are anxious to adjust the matter on a reasonable basis, yet there are features which prevent a fair adjustment at the present time. Some of the coal operators have large contracts, and were the cost of mining advanced they would loose money. The demand for coal is far below the capacity of production. There is one feature of the strike that may lead to an early break; in the Cumberland coal mines the miners are at work and show a determination to keep at work. If they persist the miners in the Clearfield mines would become uneasy and go to work, and if the break once sets in the strike would be short lived.

The Skill and Knowledge

Essential to the production of the most perfect and popular laxative remedy known, have enabled the California Fig Syrup Co. to achieve a great success in the reputation of its remedy, Syrup of Figs, as it is conceded to be the universal laxative. For sale by all druggists.

A Pointer to Travelers.

While Mr. T. J. Richey, of Altona, Mo. was traveling in Kansas he was taken violently ill with cholera morbus. He called at a drug store to get some medicine and the druggist recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhœa Remedy so highly he concluded to try it. The result was immediate relief, and a few doses cured him completely. It is made for bowel complaint and nothing else. It never fails. For sale by druggists.

THE PRISON NORTH.

Warden French Recommends Paroles to Life Men in this State.

The Cincinnati Enquirer contained a four column write up of the penitentiary at Michigan City, closing as follows:

"The directors and wardens of this prison believe that crime is a disease resulting from natural defects or vicious education, and that no one should be confined for the sake of punishment or retributive justice, but solely for the protection of society. It is with such an idea that the officials are working to benefit every prisoner within the walls, and to that end are paying attention to the better education and moral instruction of convicts.

"The directors agree with Warden French that drunkenness is also a disease, and the state has been asked to establish an inebriate asylum for convicts who are addicted to drink. There is no parole system in Indiana, as in Ohio, but efforts will be made when the legislature meets again to have such a law enacted. As it is now, a prisoner remains here until his term expires, or until a pardon comes from the governor. Warden French recommends that the Indiana law grant paroles to life men, which is going far beyond the Ohio statute.

"In short, the constant desire and effort of the prison managers is to make the Indiana Prison North a reformatory rather than a penal institution."

THE WHEEL.

Road racing in the suburbs of Paris is becoming such a nuisance that it is stated the police are about to take steps to put a stop to it.

The millionaire racing man, Max Lebaudy, is said to be the "angel" who is putting up more than $10,000 for Zim's amateur cloak.

The question as to whether the photograph is the only true way to decide the finish of a close race can only be answered in the negative.—Ex.

Choppy Warburton, interviewed, believes that the best man France can put into the field against Zimmerman is the veteran Medinger.

An Anglo-French team race has been arranged in Paris. Barden, Edwards and Harris will represent England against Fournier, Louvet and Antony for France.

At the Charleston, S. C., wheelmen's meet the other day, a handicap half-mile race for messenger boys was given. Naturally it was a slow walk-over, time, 11m. 8s.

GEORGE B. STEPHENS.

A Promising Player of the Western League.

George B. Stephens, a promising young professional pitcher, was born Sept. 27, 1867, at Romeo, Mich. It was not, however, until after he went to Detroit that he learned to play ball. After playing a few games he became convinced that pitching was his forte, and no sooner had he formed this idea than he began at once to master the art of curving the ball. It was not long before he gained quite a local reputation as a manipulator of the sphere, for he was quite a dispenser of curves, shoots and drops. His excellent work in the pitcher's box for several of the leading amateur teams of Detroit gained him such renown that his services were eagerly sought after by managers of minor league teams. After receiving several tempting offers he finally accepted his first professional engagement with the Columbus club, of the Ohio State league, in 1887. Stevens began the season 1888 with the Milwaukee club, of the Western association, but finished it with the Davenport club, of the same association. The Davenport club taking the place of the Minneapolis club, which had withdrawn from the Western association about the middle of the season. He took part that year in the thirty-four championship games and ranked well up in the official pitching averages of that association. In 1889 Stephens joined the Burlington club of the Central Interstate league. He remained with the Burlingtons throughout that and the following season. In 1891 Stephens migrated to California, and while there joined the Oakland club of the California league. Stephens returned east again and in 1892 joined the Columbus club, of the Western league, taking part that year as a pitcher in twenty-six championship games and ranked fourth in the official fielding averages of that league. His excellent work that year lead Manager Schmelz to sign him for his Chattanooga team in 1893. Stephens did still better work last year as a pitcher than he had done at any preceding season. This year he is a Western leaguer.

GEO. B. STEPHENS.

A Boy Burglar.

Oliver Clayton, eight years of age, was arrested at Danville the other day for tampering with the contents of lock-boxes at the postoffice. He was afterward released with a reprimand, he being too young to be prosecuted. Last winter Clayton was arrested for being the leader of a gang of youthful burglars. One evening recently he concealed himself in the postoffice for the purpose of being locked in, but was discovered by a mail carrier and put out.

When the Girl

is changed into a woman, the matter of utmost importance to her is the regularity with which nature purifies her system. She should avoid retention, suppression, or irregularity. When nature is balked, the blood becomes poisoned, heart, lungs, and kidneys effected, and you have a wreck of a beautiful life to mourn. Be advised. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest remedy for irregular, painful, or suspended action ever known. All druggists have it, and thousands of women recommend it. Many a girl has been returned to health by its use.

HARPER'S - PICTORIAL - HISTORY —OF THE—
CIVIL WAR.

Containing Over One Thousand of the Illustrations
That appeared in
Harper's Weekly During the War.

832 immense folio pages 16x11½ inches. Equal to 3000 pages of usual royal octavo size.

The COMPLETE, UNABRIDGED, ORIGINAL, AUTHENTIC WORK, which has always sold from $16.00 to $30.00. Issued in DOUBLE NUMBERS of 32 mammoth pages, at the same price of smaller works of only 16 pages. Thus we offer more illustrations and the unabridged text of the best history extant, the two in one, double value, for only 10 cents each double accompanied by coupons.

The Plan of the Work. The work has been in no respect modified by the fact that this is an illustrated history. They have written exactly as they should have done if the interest of their readers depend upon the unadorned recital of facts. No pains have been spared and no expense to make this the Fullest and Most Complete History of the civil war which is possible. They have not compiled from other histories, but have depended entirely upon the original materials furnished by documents of every description, military and political, no small proportion of which have never been published but have been obtained from prominent actors on both sides of the contest. In the whole scheme of the work no less prominence has been given to political than to military events.

The Size of the Pages and Illustrations. The pages are same in size as Harper's Weekly and among the illustrations are over 300 Portraits of Distinguished Soldiers and Statesmen, mostly from photographs taken during the war, nearly 160 maps, Plans and Sketches of Battlefields, nearly 600 Authentic Sketches of Places of Note and Events of Interest, such as sieges, Battles, Charges, Hospitals, Military Prisons, Camp Life, Vessels of War, Naval Engagements, Reviews, Receptions, Etc.

The size of the pages give this history great advantage over any other in the power to fully, clearly and satisfactorily illustrate these subjects demanding so much detail and perspective.

There are over 830 immense folio pages 16x11 1-2 inches, equal to 3000 pages of the usual royal octavo size.
